

BRANDON JUHASZ

BIO

Brandon Juhasz is an artist living in Cleveland Ohio. He received his Bachelor of Fine Arts from Bowling Green State University. Trained in photography and painting his work seeks to dissect and understand the entrenched power of images and photography in our culture and the changing nature of the photographic image. His work has been included in many juried and curated exhibitions both locally and nationally including the Hagedorn Gallery in Atlanta for the Atlanta Celebrates Photography festival and MOCA Cleveland. He also was featured on the popular photography blogs Flakphoto, Lenscratch and as a contender in the 2011 edition of the international photo competition Hey Hot Shot.
